ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

The Askefield Project aims to be a centre of excellence providing:

- A safe space for vulnerable adults and children
- Education
- Green care
- A place to grow through experience through integration with rural subjects such as sustainability, animal husbandry, growing to organic principles, rural crafts, farmhouse cookery and environmental topics. We aim to respect the environment and ensure that our clients are in touch with the land.

Our programmes make sure that participants are aware of good environmental practice and to fulfil our objectives we demonstrate good practice by:

- Minimising waste
- Using “eco-friendly” products wherever possible
- Re-using materials such as timber and items considered by some to be waste
- Catching and storing rain water
- Using water and other materials efficiently
- Operating in compliance with environmental legislation
- Looking for opportunities to enhance the aesthetic appeal of the land, putting it to good use and increasing soil fertility by the addition of farm produced organic matter
- Looking for partners who can promote environmental understanding in the community e.g. social care, college students, school parties and other visitors

By ongoing review we will ensure that we improve our environmental education and the opportunities to further enhance our environmental policy.
